

It Didn't Stay When You Touched It

It didn't stay
when you touched it.

Not physically—

but when you
interfered.

When you moved
what had settled.

When you changed
what you found.

It was clear
before that.

Held together
just enough to be seen.

And then—

you adjusted
the moment.

It wasn't meant
to last that way.